

Clothing Idioms Worksheet

Instructions: Underline the idiomatic expressions in the sentences and write the meanings.

Sentences with Idioms / Phrases	Meaning
Frank had ants in his pants before taking his exam.
At the drop of a hat, I called my sister when I heard she was pregnant!
You should try sleeping with your birthday suit on. It's much more comfortable.
Let's buckle down and finish the assignment.
I burned a hole in my pocket overpaying on insurance.
That was impressive. You did your graduation speech by the seat of your pants without any preparation.
Don't get caught with your pants down at a red light. Be ready to drive when it turns green.
She is always dressed to kill when she goes to the bar.
Those jeans fit her like a glove.
Bob got the boot last week. He needs to find a new job.
Please handle those wine glasses with kid gloves.
Ronaldo scored several hat tricks last season.
You had a card up your sleeve and you won the match by distracting the goalkeeper.
He tried to keep the affair zipped up, but his friend told his wife what happened.
Keep your shirt on and try to relax. The plane will land soon.
The groom made did wedding speech off the cuff.

Good job. You pulled your socks up, studied all day, and aced the test.
Put a sock in it and listen to the teacher!
Put yourself in the my shoes, then you will understand why I did it.
You put your thinking cap on and created a brilliant ad for the new product.
She has been riding my coattails all year and I don't get any credit for my effort.
You rolled up your sleeves and got the job done.
I take my hat off to Frank. He was the best singer of the century.
She wears the pants in the family. Her husband stays home and sleeps all day.
You always wear heart on your sleeve and give annual donations to charity.	