Bluster the Dragon

Once upon a time, there was a lonely dragon named Bluster. He lives in a craggy cave on the side of Mount Sizzle, a place known for its breathtaking views and unfortunately its tendency to explode every now and then. Bluster was a magnificent creature with emerald scales that sparkled in the sunlight and eyes that twinkled like the stars. Despite his impressive appearance he had one major problems; he was utterly and completely alone.

Bluster watches from his cave as the other creatures of the forest frolicking below. He saw the rabbits hopping, the squirrels chasing each other up trees, and the birds chirping sweet melodies. He sighed and said if only I had friends to share my life with. But every time he tried to join in, the animals would scatter like leaves in the wind. "It's not my fault I breathe fire!" he muttered, feeling sorry for himself.

Determined to make friends, Bluster devised a plan. "I'll throw a party!" he exclaimed, puffing out a small plume of smoke in excitement. He imagines a grand gathering with snacks (smoked marshmallows, of course), games, and music. The only problem was that he had no idea how to invited anyone. So, he decided to write invitations on giant leafs.

With his tail swishing back and forth, he wrote, "Dear Forest Friends, please come to my party! There will be snacks games and fire-breathing contests! Yours truly, Bluster the Dragon." He attached the leaves to arrows and shot them across the forest. "What could possibly go wrong?" he thought, grinning.
